Offices: New York, NY

Mina Soliman is an associate at Pillinger Miller Tarallo LLP, where his practice focuses on civil litigation and the defense of personal injury and general liability matters. Admitted to practice in both New York and Egypt, Mr. Soliman brings an international legal background together with hands-on experience managing personal injury matters involving automobile accidents, premises liability, and negligence claims.

Prior to joining PMT, Mr. Soliman represented plaintiffs in personal injury litigation, handling matters from initial intake and investigation through discovery, settlement negotiations, and trial preparation. His experience includes drafting pleadings and motions, conducting discovery, analyzing medical records and insurance documentation, evaluating liability and damages, and negotiating with insurance carriers. His prior plaintiff-side experience provides valuable perspective when assessing claims and developing effective defense strategies.

Mr. Soliman earned his LL.M. in U.S. Legal Studies from St. John's University School of Law and his Bachelor of Laws from the University of Alexandria. He is admitted to practice in New York and has been a member of the Egyptian Bar since 2006. In his spare time, he enjoys fishing and playing soccer with his son.
